Tower tours checklist

The main reason tower tours are potentially very dangerous is that members of the public are being admitted to an area they would not normally visit and with which they are unfamiliar.

Church workers or volunteers who regularly enter the tower, such as bell-ringers and vergers, will be aware of the hazards and know what to expect. Members of the public entering for the first time will not. Ideally, members of the public should only be admitted to towers or other high levels, after appropriate checks are made for safety.

However, where it is decided to allow this on occasions such as Heritage Open Days, this checklist notes the main hazards and preventative measures that can be taken to reduce the risk.

Please also consult your bell-ringer Tower Captain to get their views on suitability and also to ensure that the bells are rung down before any tour takes place. Members of the public may be admitted whilst ringing is taking place under the supervision and guidance of the Tower Captain or suitable deputy.

Checklist (check and tick as appropriate)

Before holding tower tours, make sure you complete the checklist below. Check each item and tick 'yes' or 'no' as appropriate. If you put 'no' against any item you should take suitable actions to ensure visitors will be safe as reasonably possible.

Important advice

Slips, trips and falls on stairs

All staircases must be fitted with a handrail. Ideally for spiral staircases this should be a fixed metal handrail on the outer curve. Although not as effective, a simple way to install a handrail is to run a length of rope down the central column fixed at the top and bottom, ideally with intermediate fixings to stop hands becoming trapped.

Next steps

Once you have completed this checklist and taken any steps needed to mitigate any risks please make sure that a copy is kept with your Health & Safety Policy. Please make sure you keep copies of documents together at an accessible location. Please remember you should regularly review your Health & Safety Policy and your risk assessments. We recommend that you include Health & Safety as a regular item in the agenda for your PCC meetings. For further help on specific topics we have the following checklists to help you:
